TELL OF IMPORTANCE OF 'PLANE SPOTTERS IN PROTECTION PLAN

Without Efficient Local Spotters the Whole System Would Fail

LOCAL RESIDENT SPEAKS

Foster Minster, Control Officer, and Sgt. Honorato, Address Exchange Club

Foster Minster, control officer at the Philadelphia Army Air Control Center, and Sgt. Salvatore Honorato, member of the Army Air Force, were the guest speakers before the weekly meeting of the Exchange Club at the Elks' Home last evening when they outlined the functions of the system which the Army has devised for the spotting of enemy aircraft.

The speakers emphasized the importance of the local spotters in the various observation posts scattered throughout the country. They pointed out that without the efficient and complete co-operation of every spotter in every post the whole plan would be a failure. The local spotters hold key positions in the system.

A brief description of how the information on enemy planes is transmitted to the control center in Philadelphia and then co-ordinated with information received from other posts and then relayed to the Air Corps, which in turn communicates with air bases in the particular area, where the enemy plane has been reported approaching, was outlined by Foster and Sgt. Honorato.

When all this information is co-ordinated, a matter of about two minutes, then the Air Corps would send up fighter planes to combat the enemy planes.

The speakers pointed out that in addition to the observation work carried on by the Army on land the Navy

ALFALFA CROP DAMAGED; INTERMITTENT FREEZES

County Agent Greenawalt Says Root System Is Forced Out of The Ground

ADVICE, OTHER CROPS

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 16—A considerable amount of damage has been caused the alfalfa crop in Bucks County by the intermittent freezing and thawing of the ground during the past few weeks, stated Bucks County Agriculture Agent, William F. Greenawalt.

"The root system has been forced out of the ground to such an extent that in many instances the farmers will not be able to make their first cutting later in the season," says Mr. Greenawalt.

In an attempt to again place the root system into position, a large number of the farmers have been rolling their fields, but it is not believed this will do much good because the system in many places has been shoved out of the ground four or five inches.

This condition, said Mr. Greenawalt, is very spotty throughout the entire county. In some places the fields seem to be in good condition, and in others the prospects for a good yield of alfalfa appear to be extremely poor. Seed which was sown last fall seems to have been hit the hardest.

In order to provide for an emergency hay crop, said Mr. Greenawalt, the farmers will have to sow an unusually large number of soy beans.

Although weather conditions have not been favorable, farmers throughout the county have been preparing the ground for the sowing of oats, and in some sections it has been sown. Plowing for corn has not been started as yet because it is entirely too early to plant corn.

Truckers, especially those in the lower part of the county, have planted some of the early vegetables, including spinach, beets and carrots.

Very few potatoes have been planted, although a few of the early varieties have been planted. Farmers, who have been growing potatoes on a large scale the past few years, will have no difficulty in getting seed because they placed their orders early in the season, but those who comparatively recently decided to raise potatoes this season may have trouble in getting it.

Most of the seed potatoes used in this section come from Maine, Michigan, New York State and the northern section of Pennsylvania. Some growers have applied the dormant seed potatoes also come from the Dakotas.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Equip Paratroops

Probably the most dangerous branch of any service in our armed forces is the Paratroop service. Their very lives depend upon the equipment we furnish them when they are dropped into enemy territory. Clothing alone for a paratrooper costs $219.35. He carries two parachutes.

Never let it be said that one of these brave men lost his life because we at home did not give him proper equipment. Your purchase of War Bonds or other Government Securities gives him that equipment. "They give their lives—You lend your money." U. S. Treasury Department

ROTARIANS PURCHASE $15,100 WORTH OF BONDS

Details of 2nd Drive Brought To Club by Two Local Women

SPEECH AT THEATRE

"The only thing we on the home front can do to aid the boys in the armed services is to buy bonds," declared Mrs. Leon Hutton when she and Mrs. John Leslie Kilcoyne spoke on the second war bond drive at the Bristol Rotary Club meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Elks' Home.

Mrs. Kilcoyne, chairman of the bond drive for the lower Bucks County district, told the men that $150,000 worth of bonds have been sold to date in the present drive. She said that among the 40 volunteer workers who are aiding in the drive are war workers, school teachers, housewives and others.

Mrs. Hutton pointed out that the total of 13 billion dollars is not very much compared with the investment of 11 million boys in the services. "Each boy means much more to his community, family, friends and country," she told of the heartaches in saying farewells that she witnessed when the last group of boys left the Bristol railroad station bound for the Army.

Rotarians present at the meeting yesterday purchased $15,100 worth of war savings bonds.

Among the guests present was a former Bristolian and member of the local club, Vincent Henrich.

Members listened to a radio address which was broadcast from the Pan American Relationships. Sumner Welles was the principal speaker.

Last evening John L. Kilcoyne, Esq., spoke at the Bristol Theatre urging that bonds of the Second War Loan be purchased and be purchased now.

We've Heard of Money Growing On Trees—But

(By "The Stroller")

A young woman Victory gardener, residing on Buckley street, has had good luck with her vegetable plot—yes s'ree!

A neighbor surveyed the plot a few days ago and advised liming of the soil, saying he would provide the lime. When the fair gardener was informed at dusk that the lime was ready she hurried to the plot and prepared to work.

Then she saw that "green" was showing in the middle of the plot, and rushed to the spot to see just what type of plant was bursting through the soil first. To her surprise it was a $1 bill!

We are told she keeps a sharp look-out for "green" in the garden now.

They have pool tables, ping-pong and most anything you could want—even coca-cola. What got me was the lounge room. They have a recording machine and a lot of the latest records. New York—Nazi Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels broke down today and admitted the German Government has made mistakes. In an article he said:

"The German Government did not foresee all that has happened during the past few years. . . . The right of a government to make mistakes must be conceded. . . . The Germans must follow their path to the end, even if it is a hard way, and must be prepared, if necessary, to sacrifice their lives for the sake of Nazi ideals."

Twenty-Three Convicts Escape

Axis Offers Stiff Resistance

Allied Headquarters in North Africa—The Axis is offering fierce resistance to Allied armies tightening the death-grip on German and Italian forces in Northeast Tunisia, but all enemy counter-attacks are being repelled successfully, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's headquarters reported today.

Stubborn opposition was encountered by the British First Army which has advanced to within 25 miles of the capital of Tunis in a push north of Medjez-El-Bab. Axis forces launched several counter-attacks against the British in north-occupied hill positions but all the assaults were beaten off.

At the Southern approaches to the Enfidaville line 50 miles south of Tunis, behind which Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered Afrika Korps has taken up new positions, the British Eighth Army continued its probing to feel out the strength of the enemy.

Allied bombers and fighters continued assaults on Axis landing fields in the battle area and cut up tank and troop columns although the aerial sorties were on a lesser scale than in recent days because of weather restrictions.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Slightly Out of Focus

Washington, April 15.

IT has been pointed out many times by various persons that lack of a sense of proportion is an outstanding characteristic of this Administration. It is almost constantly out of focus. That has been true from the start. In the days before the war the New Deal enthusiastically embraced vast, vague schemes for remodeling our domestic economy but ignored the fundamental facts upon which government stability depends.

THERE HAS been no change in this respect since the war. In his speeches the idealistic Mr. Wallace glowingly pictures a dream world to follow the peace and is now spreading the doctrine of universal brotherhood in the South American republics, where the warmth of his reception is not diminished by his cordial assurance that financial loans should be made to South America "in every way possible." But he apparently has no interest in the practical solution of home problems. Recently the President sent to Congress a grand "birth-to-death" plan by which health, happiness and jobs (at an estimated cost of twenty-nine billion a year) are to be assured for all. Meanwhile the confusion in the war agencies dealing with vital domestic issues increases, and the danger of inflation is not averted by the President's strong statement accompanying his executive order to check further wage and farm-price advances.

TERRIBLY DELAYED though this step has been, the President is entitled to the fullest possible support when he moves in this direction. However, it ought to be clear that, unless his wage and food price Continued On Page Three

RULES FOR RATIONING

"Eat and drink such an exact quantity as the constitution of the body allow of, in reference to the services of the mind.

"They that study much ought not to eat as much as those that work hard, their digestion being not so good.

"The exact quantity and quality being found out, is to be kept to constantly.

"Excess in all other things whatever, as well as in meat and drink, is also to be avoided.

"Youth, age, and sick require a different quantity.

"And so do those of contrary complexions; for that which is too much for a phlegmatic man is not sufficient for a choleric.

"The measure of food ought to be (as much as possibly may be) exactly proportionable to the quality and condition of the stomach, because the stomach digests it.

"That quantity that is sufficient, the stomach can perfectly concoct and digest, and it sufficeth the due nourishment of the body.

"A greater quantity of some things may be eaten than of others, some being of lighter digestion than others.

"The difficulty lies in finding out an exact measure; but eat for necessity, not pleasure; for lust knows not where necessity ends.

"Wouldst thou enjoy a long life, a healthy body, and a vigorous mind, and be acquainted also with the wonderful works of God, labor in the first place to bring thy appetite to reason."

Prentiss Brown did not invent these rules. They are from Poor Richard's Almanack, who thought them up a couple of centuries before Ration Book 1, was issued in the United States.

AFRICA AND AFTER

General Montgomery was well-advised when he said that the Germans can not adequately reinforce their African divisions. They can not even evacuate very many of them, for the Allies now dominate both the waters and the air between Tunisia and Italy.

General Montgomery hails the Eighth Army as "the greatest army Britain has ever produced." He can well reflect with pride on the prowess of a command which until he and General Alexander took over was in a progressive relapse toward Cairo, and which seemed to be exhibiting an enormous capacity for blundering. The Eighth Army under Montgomery has been different from most of its predecessors. It has outsmarted Germany's cleverest desert general and tank tactician. It has out-fought an outstanding German professional army.

In on the roundup of the Romme remnants in northern Tunisia will be the British First Army. And that army has as its nucleus the mer actually evacuated at Dunkerque.

The joint action of American, British and French troops in Tunisia is also an indication of the aid the Russians may expect from now on.

Something else for women to remember is that the sooner the war is won, the sooner nylon and silk hosiery will be back.

Congressman Points to Severe Shortage of Food in Offing. And the offering, it may as well be realized, isn't far off.

The Great Game of Politics

Freezing order is accompanied by a far tougher tax program and a far more effective collection system, the great objective of averting inflation will not be attained. This is too clear to dispute. It is one of those things which men like Mr. R. M. Baruch have been stressing for two years. There is not an authority anywhere who does not agree. Yet today we find the Administration not only without a taxation program of its own but lined up against the only sensible and effective suggestions that have been advanced.

behaving like children. The only program the Administration has had is a negative program. It is against a general sales tax and it recently defeated the Carlson-Ruml pay-as-you-earn plan. Except to be gleeful about this "victory," of which it should be ashamed, no tax suggestions have come from the Treasury and the whole tax situation is in a state of the utmost confusion, with no prospect that any bill will be passed until fall. This means that ten months or 1943 will elapse before 40,000,000 taxpayers know what the tax rate for 1943 will be.

THE LACK of a tax bill that will drain off a large part of the surplus billions now in the hands of the people, and failure to supply a simple and effective pay-as-you-go plan of collection, is the great weakness of our domestic situation. No matter what else is done, until these things are supplied the fight the President is making against inflation is certain to be a losing one. Warning after warning has been given to this effect. The latest came a few days ago from two strong figures within the Administration itself—Mr. Jesse Jones and Mr. Marriner Eccles. But here we are proposing a detailed fiscal program for the wide, wide world after the war but without any plan to keep the United States financially healthy during the war. Anyone who can reconcile this with reason ought to be richly rewarded.

also has a very elaborate system for spotting enemy planes approaching from the water, and the two systems have been carefully co-ordinated so that both branches of the service have the same information on all planes almost simultaneously.

The route of every plane taking to the air in this country must be carefully outlined and given to the Army Air Corps before the plane leaves the ground, and every plane must have clearance papers before leaving the ground. All this information about flights is contained in the control center. The work at this center is carried on 24 hours daily and the local spotter posts must be manned 24 hours daily for complete results.

Long Distance Lines to War-busy Centers Overloaded with Calls!

Cooperation of Public Needed to Avoid Serious Delays

AMERICA'S WAR DRIVE puts heavier and heavier demands on Long Distance telephone service.

The production of arms, the building of ships, the movements of troops—all are directed by telephone calls!

Circuits to centers of war activity—such as Washington, Norfolk and points south, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and the west coast—are frequently loaded to capacity. Then calls must wait their turn. Sometimes there's only a few minutes' delay—but sometimes there are delays of an hour or more.

This condition could and would be corrected—if we could build enough more circuits. But that would take tons and tons of copper and other critically needed war materials. So we must make the most of what we have.

To maintain reasonably good Long Distance service, under war-time conditions, we must have your cooperation.

Make Only URGENT Calls to Centers of War Activity

The elimination of needless calls would reduce the load on the lines and make circuits available for the URGENT calls of war.

Before making a Long Distance call, ask yourself if it is really necessary. Can the matter be handled effectively by letter or in some other way?

Your cooperation helps speed calls that help to win the war!

Keep All Calls BRIEF

A long-drawn-out conversation ties up a Long Distance circuit as much as a number of brief calls. Millions of vitally important seconds can be saved if users of the service will KEEP CALLS BRIEF.

Before making a call, plan your conversation so as to cover the ground without needless repetition. Remember a call can be concise and to the point and still be courteous.

Use the Faster Station-to-Station Service

A Person-to-Person call ties up a Long Distance circuit two and a half times longer, on an average, than a Station-to-Station call.

Use the faster Station-to-Station service when you will talk with anyone at the called telephone or when you are reasonably sure that the person with whom you wish to talk will be at or near the telephone when you call.

Place Long Distance Calls by NUMBER

If you place a call by name and address and the Operator must get the number from "Information" in the distant city, this ties up a Long Distance circuit almost as long as another call.

Please place Long Distance calls by number if you can. Keep a record of all out-of-town numbers and extension numbers you may wish to reach.

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Grant unto us thy blessing, O Heavenly Father, as we live our daily lives. May we see and understand that man's greatest blessing is thine eternal presence, and man's richest treasure is the assurance of thy nearness. There are times when we are prone to depend upon the strength of man and the might of armies for our protection; yet we know within our hearts that these things are temporal, and that only the arm of God is eternal. So cause us to reach out our hands unto thee, that we, through thy presence, may find peace. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

American Legion Auxiliary decided to send Easter gifts of candy and cigarettes to the Veterans of World War I, who are in the Coatesville Hospital. Gifts of clothing will be made at Easter to the children of a veteran which the auxiliary is sponsoring, and Easter greeting cards will be sent to all those members of Legion families who are now in the service. Mrs. Tobias Hafler is in charge of these services and keeps up a correspondence with all those in service.

Pennsylvania's second oldest member of the Masonic order, Joshua Paul Vanartsdalen, died at his home near Newtown, on Tuesday, just nine days before he would have celebrated his 100th birthday anniversary. His death was caused by complications incident to his advanced age.

The near centenarian, who lived to see this nation engaged in four wars and who had seen depressions come and go, was born in Northampton township, a son of Joseph and Anna Joans Vanartsdalen.

He received his education in the schools of his home district, and for a short time taught school in Trumbauersville. Later he conducted a cigar store in Doylestown. After having given up this enterprise, Mr. Vanartsdalen served as a towerman at Glen Lake. In the employ of the Reading Railway Company until 1888, Mr. Vanartsdalen operated the manual semaphore signals long before the automatic system was put into use.

Retiring from service on the railroad, he went to Newportville, where he farmed.

last against and contrasting with the grim setting of war-torn Europe—that's the unique basis of Leo McCarey's "Once Upon a Honeymoon," Cary Grant-Ginger Rogers vehicle at the Grand.

Only Leo McCarey, who produced and directed the film, could have successfully combined such incongruous elements into a brilliant piece of entertainment. From its opening scenes when the American news broadcaster tries vainly to discourage his pretty compatriot from marrying a German baron to its surprise conclusion aboard a home-bound liner ten months later, the picture hits a happy note of light-hearted gaiety that makes it one of the finest show-cases the two stars have had in years.

Alan Ladd, tough guy star of the spy thriller, "Lucky Jordan," now at the Bristol Theatre, really believes in luck.

His trench coat, now his movie trade mark, was worn in his first picture for luck. He's worn it in each of his other pictures. The brief case seen in "Lucky Jordan" is the one he carried in "This Gun for Hire" and "The Glass Key."

Alan Ladd's heart interest in "Lucky Jordan" is pretty Helen Walker, a Hollywood newcomer.

BRISTOL HIGH SCHOOL TO OPEN BALL SEASON

Although lacking in practice because of the weather, the Bristol High School baseball team will open its season this afternoon, meeting the Langhorne high school on the local field. The game is a Lower Bucks County League contest.

Coach Walter Rosser, of the Bunnies, has had but one good practice in the past three weeks and he is doubtful that the kinks are all out of his players. In fact, the practice sessions that have been going on are mostly running exercises to keep warm and only once did the boys hold a bat in their hands.

Coach Rosser is making no predictions on the season. He doesn't know what the other two teams in the circuit, Langhorne and Bensalem, has in the way of material, but the grapevine system has brought him reports that Langhorne has one star pitcher with plenty of speed.

Only five games are on the local schedule thus far. Two will be played with the Lower Bucks County League teams while the other contest is scheduled to be played with George School on the latter's field. Coach Rosser is attempting to arrange another home game with George School and also with several other schools.

The high school mentor is also arranging a schedule whereas the boys will also form a league of their own so as they can get plenty of the national pastime.

Coach Rosser had many candidates for the positions on the team and he has simmered them down to the following: Catchers, Elker, Leo Johnson, and Mike Hall; pitchers, Joe Saggola, Toby Oriola, John Cordisco, and Johnny Messenella; infielders, Bill Dougherty, Angelo Cordisco, Bill Crossan, Howard MacCorkle, Marvin Collins, Joe Elmer, Mayo Scancellia, Keny Maaz, McCue, and John Collier; outfielders, Jack Sackville, Len Simons, Sammy Spadafore, Vincent Brescia, Stephenson, and Joe Iannucci.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR TWILIGHT BASEBALL

At a meeting of the Bristol Twilight Baseball League held last night, plans were discussed as to whether or not to have a league this season.

Managers and interested parties who attended were of the opinion that efforts should be made to continue the circuit and decided to hold another meeting next Tuesday night to outline further plans.

Three teams stated definitely that they would enter the league again. They are: Diamond, Voltz-Texaco and Hunter's. Another spokesman was willing to back a team if he could secure a suitable manager. Other representatives stated that they would have to wait for their organizations to decide whether they would field a team.

Shanghai Teacher Is Speaker For The P. T. A.

Appearing in Chinese costume the speaker also exhibited a mandarin coat, Chinese linens, plaques, etc.

She told how when war came to Shanghai the college group was evacuated to Peking. The bombing of the college was recounted, the Japanese reimbursing college authorities in Chinese money for damage done, then following the Pearl Harbor attack attempting to regain some of the funds.

A number of questions were answered by Miss Knaube, who was introduced by Miss Jane Kohler, a member of the Bensalem faculty.

C. Burnley White presided during the business session. Members planned for the P. T. A. to sponsor the government subsidized milk program, thus securing milk from nearby dairies for pupils. Cost to students will be one cent per half pint.

It is decided to return to the plan of presenting a cup to the outstanding scholar in the senior class at graduation time. Last spring a war bond was given. The runner-up will receive $10 in cash.

Mrs. Harvey Rigby, who had been named chairman of a card party, will remain as chairman of a special committee, but in lieu of the card party donations of cash or merchandise will be asked, and merchandise will be auctioned at the next meeting.

Election of officers will occur in May.

reality," said Mr. Kilcoyne. "Thirteen billion dollars sounds like a lot of money, but it is nothing to compare with what our boys are giving. We must give and give now. Now the need is, and not later."

"Men and women who have given their sons must still give more, so that they will have food, guns, tanks, ammunition and the other implements of war. This money will save their lives, so give."

Bonds can be purchased at any of the theatres.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

BY JOE ELBERSON

Bucks County's popular trout streams, Cook's Creek, Mill Creek and Ingram's Run, although very liberally stocked this Spring, were not very productive yesterday, the opening day of the trout season in the Commonwealth. The trout season also opened in New Jersey yesterday.

Scores of local anglers, including several Bristolians, braved the freezing weather and snow flurries to wade ice-cold streams in search of the most sought after fish in the State.

In the early morning lines froze and flies were covered with thin coats of ice. Many of the fishermen wore gloves. We have no reports from the popular Pike County streams and other popular up-State sections, but it must have been far from pleasant at 5 a. m. yesterday, official start of the season.

More than 700,000 trout above the legal minimum of six inches were stocked by the Fish Commission this Spring. This was probably one of the added inducements that saw the season open with so many anglers on the streams.

One 20½ inch rainbow trout was taken by an up-county angler yesterday morning, and several others measuring from 16 to 18 inches were reported taken on Bucks County waters.

Ollie Hobbs, 315 Cleveland street, was out all day with his son, William. Ollie fished flies all day with no success. His son caught one 9-inch trout—he used worms for bait. William Brown, 328 McKinley street, brought six small trout home. Dick Winslow, Gay Nonini and M. Bakelaar, all Bristol anglers, came home with very light creels.

In nearby Philadelphia County's Wissahickon Creek fishing was spotty. One 20-inch rainbow was landed in the morning and several other smaller ones were taken. This stream received a heavy stocking just a few weeks ago.

Edgely Rod & Gun Club has a very interesting meeting scheduled for Monday evening, April 19th, at the Fire House in Edgely. Problems concerning lower Bucks sportsmen will be discussed. Some good movies are also to be shown. I'm sure the Edgely Club would welcome all local sportsmen to this meeting which will be called at 8 o'clock.
